Steiner NYC recently hosted some of the city's top brokers at Steiner East Village, a new 82-unit condominium, for an amenity reveal party. Guests gathered in the community courtyard, a beautiful outdoor space designed for residents to enjoy throughout all seasons, and enjoyed cocktails by Amor y Amargo. Attendees included Fredrik Eklund and John Gomes of Douglas Elliman, who are leading sales for the project and developer Doug Steiner. Steiner East Village, designed by S9 ARCHITECTURE compliments the historic East Village neighborhood in scale and style, with an aged brick façade and interwoven greenery. The building's classic, loft-style interiors, designed by Paris Forino, offer ten-foot-plus ceiling heights, oversized windows, exquisite marble finishes and wide plank floors, top-of-the-line appliances, and plentiful light and air. The development includes one-to-four bedroom condos and penthouses
